

DESIGN GUIDELINES

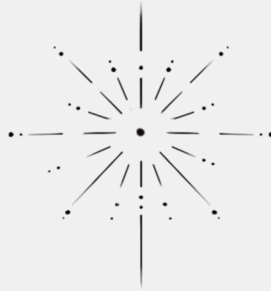

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

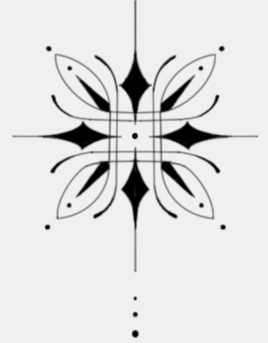

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

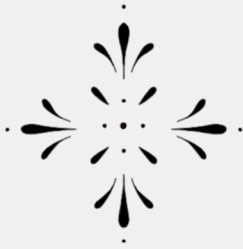

@princesslena.ink

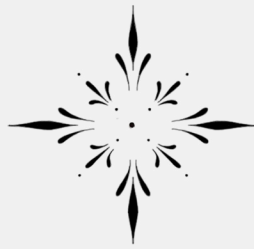

@princesslena.ink

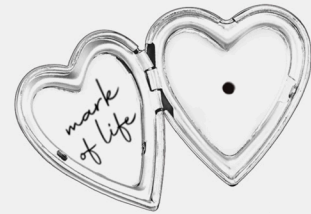

@princesslena.ink

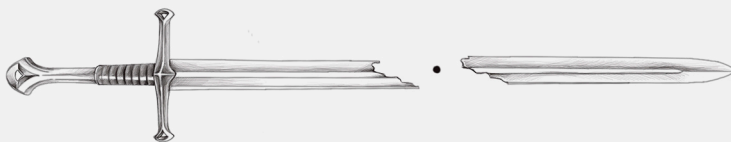

@princesslena.ink

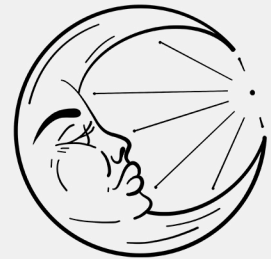

@princesslena.ink

@princesslena.ink

@princesslena.ink

@byflavor

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

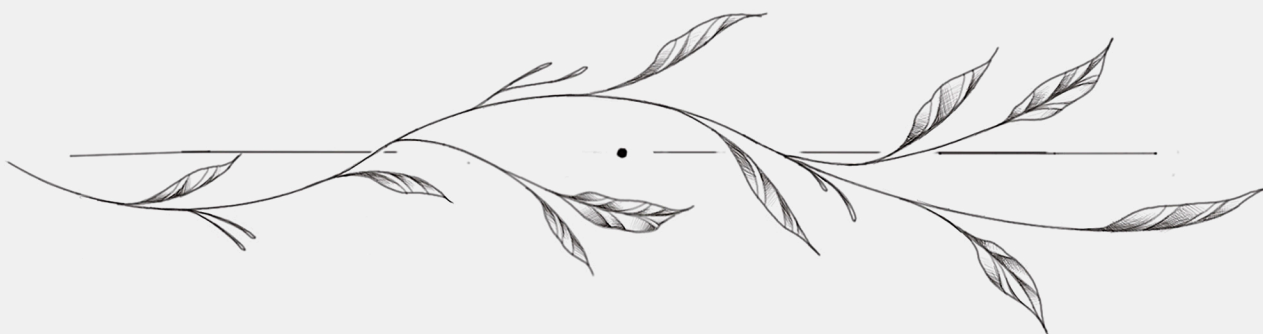

@niveo

@princesslena.ink

@princesslena.ink

@princesslena.ink

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

@niveo

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

@niveo

@niveo

Hope

@andre_rodriguesp

Power

@andre_rodriguesp

the Mark of Life

@andre_rodriguesp

Love

@andre_rodriguesp

Strong

@andre_rodriguesp

@marcelyunes

@marcelyunes

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

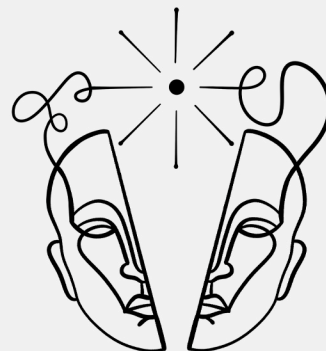

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

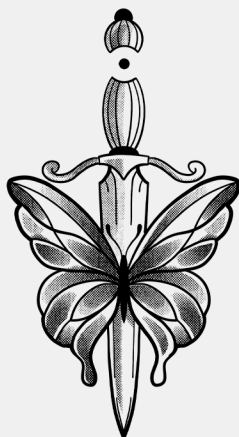

@byflavor

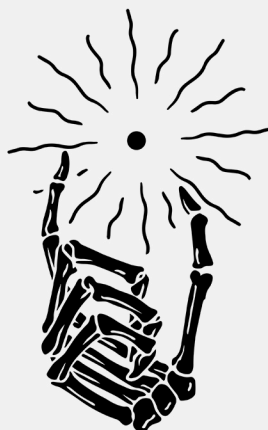

@byflavor

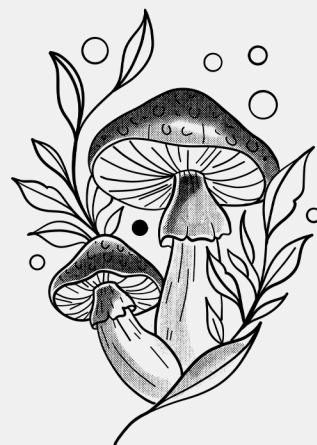

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

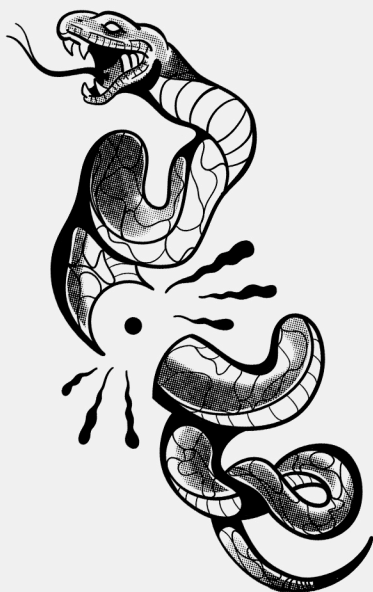

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

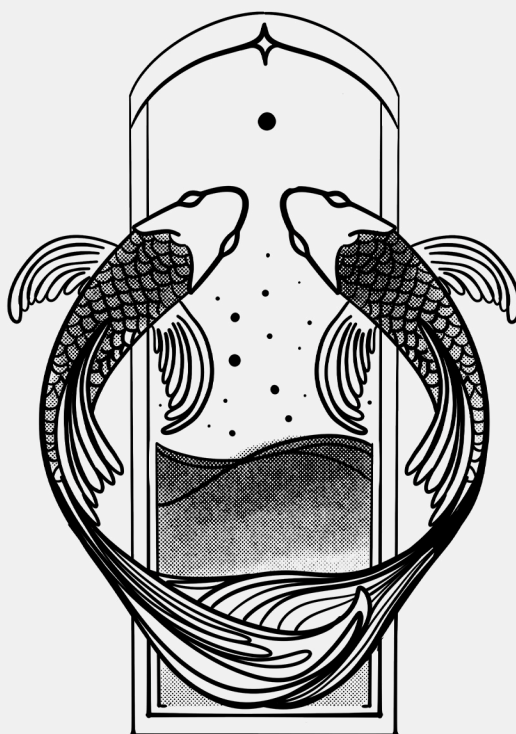

@byflavor

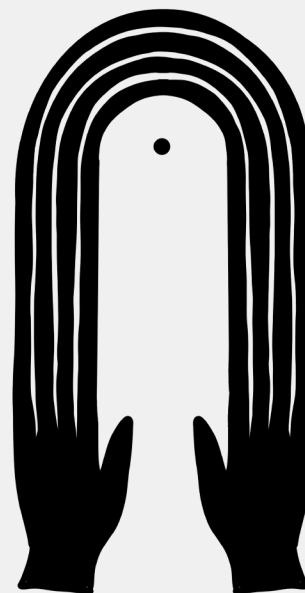

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

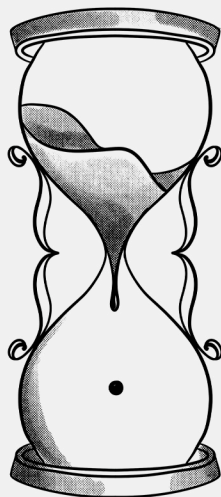

@byflavor

DESIGN GUIDELINES

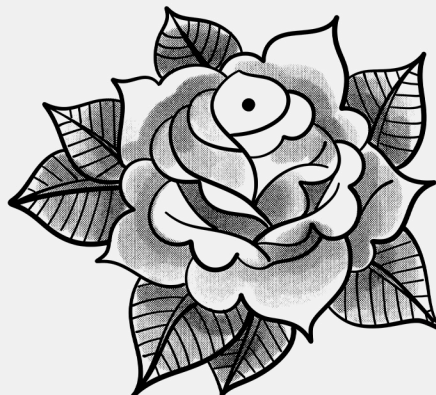

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

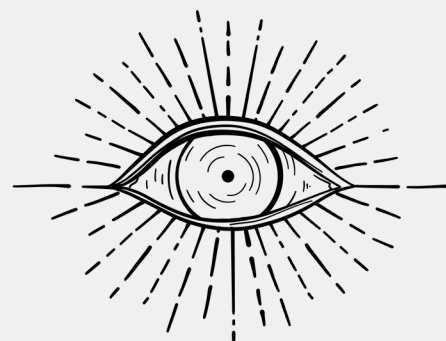

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

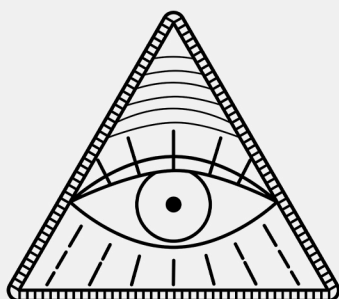

@byflavor

@byflavor

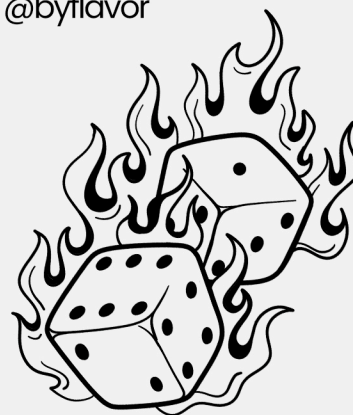

@byflavor

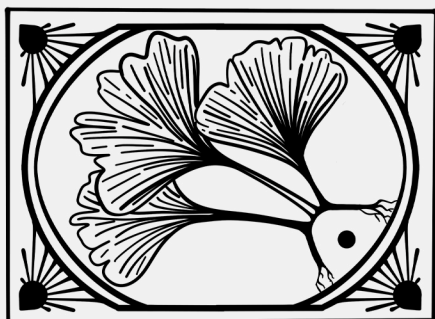

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

@byflavor

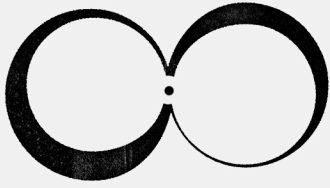

@byflavor

DESIGN GUIDELINES

Designs should not cover, obstruct or interfere with the original radiation mark in any way.

Designs should leave a margin of at least 5mm (0.3") of clean skin between the radiation mark and new ink.

Ideally, the radiation mark is treated as the starting, center, or focal point of any design.

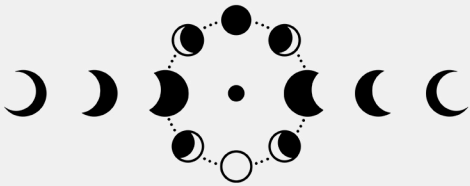

@marcelyunes

@marcelyunes

@marcelyunes

@byflavor